GOVERNOR TAYLOR WILL RETURN WITHOUT ANY IMMUNITY PLEDGE

If He Is Guaranteed a Fair And Impartial Trial.

Asks Non-Partisan Jury and Fair Honest Honorable Judge to Preside.

Indianapolis, Aug. 23.—Former Gov. William S. Taylor, of Kentucky, tonight broke a silence of seven years' duration, and gave to the world a statement in which he offers to return to Kentucky and face trial on the charge of being implicated in the murder of Goebel, provided a satisfactory guaranty is given that the trial will be absolutely fair.

Mr. Taylor's offer comes as a response to the challenge issued by Attorney Robert B. Franklin, inviting him to return as a witness in the Powers' case under promise of immunity. It was made after consultation with his friends, some of whom advised against it, urging that so long as the Democrats held power in Kentucky there were no possible conditions under which Mr. Taylor's life and liberty would be safe in that State.

DETERMINED TO BE SET RIGHT.

The exiled man was determined, however, that his enemies should not be allowed to make capital out of his unwillingness to accept a proposition that, to those unfamiliar with affairs in his native State, might seem to be fair and honorable. Realizing that the matter is one of national interest, and that his reputation as an innocent man wronged by political passion and prejudice, is at stake, he decided to settle for all time any question as to his readiness to face the charges that have been brought against him.

Now that the statement has been issued, friends of Mr. Taylor believe that his position and the strength of his cause in the public mind will be materially advanced. The conviction exists here among those who know the conditions prevailing in Kentucky, that the immunity offer was a political move, made for use in the campaign now in progress in that State, and they are convinced that Mr. Taylor's attitude, as made public tonight, will turn the proposal of Beckham and his attorney into a boomerang, reacting to the serious hurt of the Democratic State ticket.

MR. TAYLOR'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Taylor says in his statement:

"For more than seven years I have borne in silence the slanders and persecutions of those who robbed me of what heaven knows was my own, and who, to conceal that crime against liberty, and for no other reason, indicted and drove me into exile. I trust an indulgent public will permit me now to break that silence.

"Commonwealth Attorney Robert B. Franklin knows that I have fully testified in the Powers case by deposition. This testimony is a part of the record of the case, and is accessible to him at all times. He knows, too, that he had a right to cross-examine me at the time I gave it, and did not do so. "He knows that neither he nor any other officer or combination of officers in Kentucky has the legal power to grant such immunity, and that were I to return under such promise of immunity I would at once be arrested, denied bail and, like Mr. Powers, be subjected to nothing less than a mock trial by a partisan court, before a packed jury and with a $100,000 corruption fund as a powerful incentive to conviction. The law is clear that Mr. Franklin or any other officer has no power to promise immunity.

OFFERS TO FACE TRIAL.

"But, inasmuch as Mr. Franklin abounds in propositions and promises, and seems enamored of the idea that he can do things, I will say this: If he will in some way provide an absolute guaranty—not merely a promise—a guaranty that will inspire confidence among sensible, level-headed, honest men—a guaranty, the spirit of which will not be violated though the letter be observed, that I will be given a fair and impartial trial, I will gladly return to Kentucky and submit to trial.

"In other words, if Mr. Franklin will cause what remains of the $100,000 corruption fund to be returned to the Treasury of Kentucky, no part of it to be used in these prosecutions, thus putting my case on the same footing as other criminal cases; will guarantee that all trial juries in my case shall be composed of six upright Democrats and a like number of upright Republicans; will guarantee that bail will be granted me within the limits of $100,000; will dismiss the indictments against all parties used as prosecuting witnesses, except myself, leaving them free to testify without fear, coercion or restraint, and last but by no means least, will in advance by mutual agreement, select an able, upright and impartial Judge to try my case, I will without any promise of immunity, voluntarily and gladly return to Kentucky, not only to testify in the Powers case, but to submit myself to trial before a jury of my native State."

SUDDEN DEATH OF G. B. SMITH

Man of Splendid Qualities and Prominent in Politics.

George B., familiarly known as "Cletch" Smith, died at his home, near Clear Run, last Saturday night after an illness of only a few days. He was in Hartford on Wednesday, but had been having malaria. He sent for a physician Saturday, Dr. Taylor responded and succeeded in getting him comfortable. He had some symptoms of appendicitis, but it had not developed fully. About 9 o'clock Saturday night he grew suddenly worse and passed away, surrounded by his family.

His remains were laid to rest Sunday afternoon at Union Grove, the services being conducted by the Modern Woodmen of the World, under direction of Clear Run lodge. Mr. Smith was prominent in Republican politics having made the race for Jailer before the Republican Convention a few years ago, and was defeated by Oscar Midkiff by only two votes. He would have been a candidate for Sheriff at the next election for county offices. His many friends were greatly shocked by his untimely death.

Mr. Smith was one of the very best citizens of our county and his death is a severe loss to his community. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his loss.

Notice to Farmers.

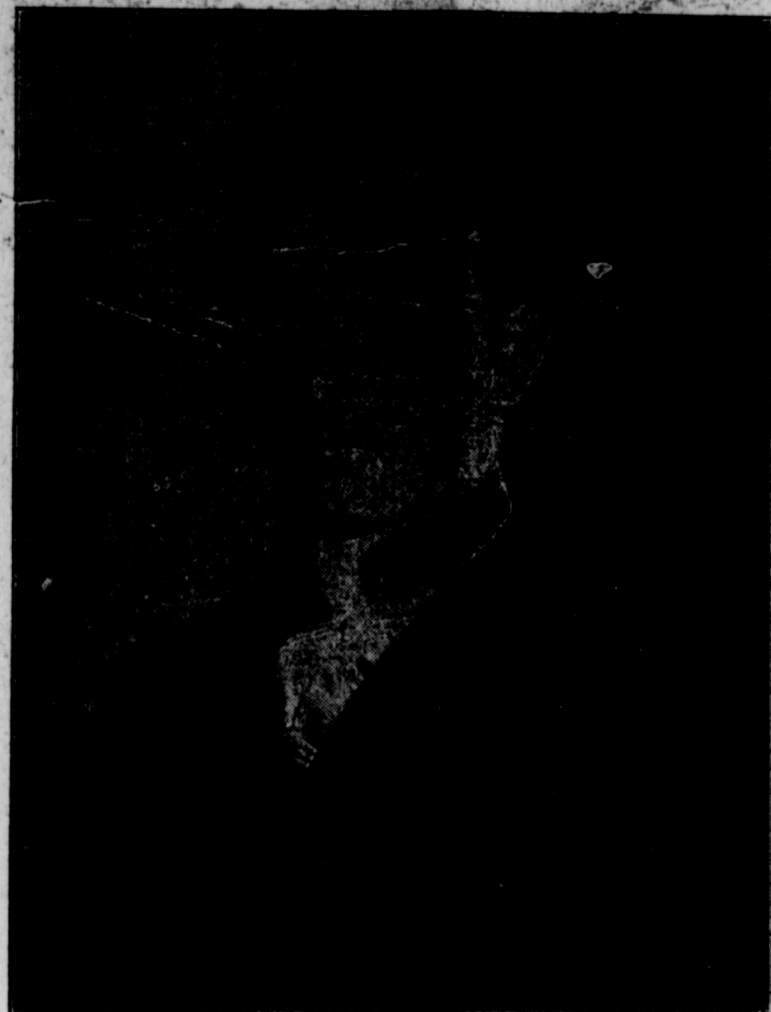

The Industrial Co-operative Association of Ohio county, Ky., will have a big rally at Williams Mines on Labor Day, September 2, 1907, and all organized farmers and all laborers are cordially invited to come and bring well filled baskets and have a good day. There will be speaking by distinguished gentlemen and plenty of good music and everything that it takes to make a good time. Come, let us meet and have a hand-shake and know each other better.

Death of Mrs. Walker.

Mrs. Amanda Walker, wife of R. M. Walker, who had been ill for quite awhile, died at her residence in East Hartford shortly after noon Tuesday, of cancer. Her death was very unexpected as she had been very low for several weeks. She was one of Hartford's best women and will be greatly missed. She was in her 66th year and had been a faithful member of the Methodist church, South, since early childhood. She was married to Mr. Walker September 5, 1860. She leaves a husband, two daughters and one son, a mother, two sisters and two brothers, besides numerous other relatives and friends, to mourn her sad demise. Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. A. Lewis, assisted by Rev. Frank Baker at the residence at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, after which her remains were interred at Oakwood cemetery. Mr. James F. Sullenger and wife, Owensboro, Mrs. Dr. J. T. Bethel, Henderson, Willie Walker and wife, Lexington; B. F. Sullenger and wife and J. W. Carter and wife and Mrs. Susan Sullenger, Concord, were at the bedside of Mrs. Walker when the final summons came.

The honorary pall bearers were Capt. S. K. Cox, J. C. Riley, F. L. Felix, A. E. Pate, R. Holbrook and W. H. Moore. Active, R. E. L. Simmerman, C. M. Barnett, C. P. Keown, H. P. Taylor, A. S. Yewell and E. B. Pendleton.

MONEY FOR STATE MILITIA.

United States Government Asked to Pay Half Wages

While Not in Active Service to Hold up Standing of The Army.

A dispatch from Lexington to the Courier-Journal contains the following, which will be of intense interest to all State Guards:

Secretary of War William H. Taft, while in this city last week, went over with Brig. Gen. Roger D. Williams, of this city, commanding officer of the Kentucky State Guard, the details of a bill for organizing the National Guard which Secretary Taft will prepare to offer to Congress at its next session. By the terms of the bill, which has the support of President Roosevelt and will undoubtedly become a law, the National Guard will be united more closely to the regular United States Army, to which it will form a National reserve force. The officers and men will be placed on half pay when not in active service, and officers of the regular army will have direct supervision and authority.

The present effective force of the National Guard is about 300,000 men, but as the offer of half pay when not in service will be an attractive inducement, no difficulty is anticipated in increasing this force to 500,000. This would enable the Government in case of war to place immediately in the field an army of half a million soldiers thoroughly trained and equipped for war. The officers in direct command of this reserve would be commissioned as now by the Governors of the States to which the different organizations belong, but they will be paid and equipped by the National Government, and will be drilled and organized under the direction of regular army officers to whose orders they will be subject when the national exigencies require.

It is not intended to abolish the small regular army as it now exists, but on account of the small pay of the regular soldiers, it becomes each year more difficult to secure recruits, and it is feared that it will soon become impossible to keep the regular army up to even its small quota, if indeed, it does not altogether melt away. At present there are two discharges for one new enlistment, and it may be that the National reserve will eventually be called upon to perform practically all of the service required of the regular army, although with the large number available, these duties would not require a large part of their time.

The Dick law under which the present National guard is organized, expires on January 1, and it will therefore be necessary to pass a new law, and Secretary Taft's bill will be offered to this purpose.

Death of Little Girl.

On Saturday, August 24, the darked king Angel of death visited our neighborhood and claimed for its victim little Catherine St. Clair the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. St. Clair. Little Catherine was a lovely little child. To know her was to love her. Such is the Lord's will for he says "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven." So weep not, dear parents, and brothers and sisters, for she is standing with outstretched arms beckoning you all on to glory where there is no more pain or death, but rest and peace for ever and ever. May the Lord bless these parents and brothers and sisters in their bereavement, is the prayer of your scribe. G. J. H. Friedland, Ky., August 27, 1907.

Editor Republican:—Allow me through your excellent paper to express my sincere thanks to my friends and neighbors of Hartford and vicinity for their kind assistance during my sickness. My husband also joins me in thanking them for their kindness. MR. AND MRS. J. W. BEAR.

TRAINS COLLIDE IN MIDDLE OF BRIDGE

Engine Goes Into River With Two Men--Both Escape Death.

Princeton, Ky., Aug. 26.—Traffic over the Illinois Central railroad, which has been delayed since yesterday morning, was resumed to-day, a temporary bridge having been built to take the place of the structure which was torn away yesterday morning. Two freight trains, going at good speed, collided head-on on the bridge, which is high above the waters of the Tradewater river.

One of the engines was knocked into the river and the engineer and fireman went down with it, but neither was more than slightly injured. The other engine stayed on the track, but was considerably wrecked. Cars were piled up on the bridge and several followed the engine into the river; the bridge was so badly wrecked that it was impossible for trains to pass over it, and the damage will be great. All passenger trains were delayed many hours by the wreck and some of the trains were sent to and from Louisville by way of Henderson. The cause of the wreck is not known. The bridge is about half a mile from Dawson Springs.

GROSS FRAUD IN PRIMARY ELECTION

Willson Exposes Methods Used to Defeat McCreary.

Mountain Counties Seat of Untold Debauch in Favor of Beckham and Hager.

In his speech at Pikeville last Monday, Augustus E. Willson, Republican nominee for Governor, exposed the methods used in the Democratic primary last fall, in which McCreary was defrauded out of the endorsement for United States Senator, and Hayes lost in the Governor's race to Hager. After showing how the same gang had robbed the Republicans in the election of 1899, and had appropriated the offices and used the power which they gave them to further ambitions, Mr. Willson then declared that they had turned their fraud against men of their own party and showed up their crimes against the ballot in the following explicit language:

"And the worst feature of this which I have a right to present to honest Democrats who think for themselves as a reason why they cannot honestly support the combination of Hager, Beckham & Co., is that the State very well understands now, McCreary and Hayes carried the Democratic counties of Kentucky by a good majority, and were beaten by gross frauds in the mountain counties, not one of which can give a Democratic majority.

"McCreary and Hayes belong to the old school, and although outraged and humiliated by frauds and crimes upon the primary, they hold their peace and bide their time—too honorable and manly to 'sneak'.

"I have heard at first hand from personal witnesses many explicit accounts of the way in which Hager, Beckham & Co. carried the Democratic primary in the Republican counties, and have referred to them generally, but I am going to state publicly here to-day what has been told me by respectable men, of the facts of a particular case in point in Pike county.

"I do not personally know the facts, but I state them upon respectable information, and state them here where they are said to have occurred, to the end that if the statements made to me are not wholly true and accurate as I believe, else I should not state them, I may be correctly informed so that I shall not speak of it again.

HOW THEY WORKED IT.

"In 1906 the Democratic primary was held on the day of the congressional election, and Pike county, in which I now speak, gave Mr. Langley, the Republican candidate for Congress, a good majority. The banner Republican precinct in that county was Peter precinct, and the whole Democratic vote of Peter Precinct, I am informed, was 59 votes for Mr. Hopkins, Democrat, for Congress, and 260 votes, Republican and Democratic altogether.

"I am informed by respectable men a primary has gone through with unpeter precinct was Mr. Cline, a lawyer at Pikeville, now Democratic Campaign Chairman of Pike county, and that, in fact, no Democratic primary was held in Peter Precinct, and that unquestionably no form or pretense of a primary was gone through with until after the election was over and the people had nearly all gone home, when the Democratic workers, with perhaps three or four men, made up and sent in to Pikeville, the county seat, what pretended to be the returns of the Democratic primary election at Peter precinct in Pike county on that day, and by that return, which was sent in and counted as part of the returns from the Democratic primary in Pike county, there were certified and counted 263 votes for Beckham and Hager against none for McCreary and Hays. This was from a precinct which only gave fifty-nine votes for Mr. Hopkins, the Democratic nominee for Congress, on that day and at that place, and only 260 votes in all, and Pike county was returned as giving Beckham and Hager 1,800 majority, when it only had and voted that day 2,100 votes.

GOT WRONG DOPE.

"But there was another thing of very particular interest in the story, and that was a telegram from a State officer to Chairman Pinson, at Pike, which read: 'What is your majority?' Pinson wired in reply: 'Eight hundred.' The State officer wired back, 'You mean 1,800, don't you?' and Pinson answered 'Yes,' and it came in the Pike county returns 1,800 majority for every man on the ticket.

"The conscience of the State has been shocked by the alphabetical voting, the pudding of registrations, and voting of men that had no existence, in order to cheat the Republicans in Louisville; but I submit to the honest Democrats of Kentucky that in the Democratic primary of 1906 and in the return from Peter precinct in Pike county, which I am very positive is only one of many such cases, the crime perpetrated upon fellow Democrats was just as glaring and shameless as anything done to Republicans."

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE OHIO COUNTY FAIR

Grounds Being Cleaned up, Track Worked and All Beautified for Occasion.

The annual meeting of the Ohio County Fair will be held this year at an earlier and more appropriate date than for many years. This fact of itself will no doubt add much to the success of the meet, as stockmen, race-horsemen and all fair exhibitors will still have their stock in excellent trim when the Ohio County Fair is held. Heretofore the fair has often been held late and at late dates stock is considerably run down as compared to what it is at the beginning. Notwithstanding this however excellent stock has always come to Ohio county fairs. Another reason why this should be a banner year for Ohio county Fair is because there is no conflicting date near here.

The grounds are now being put in condition. The track is being worked, the amphitheater repaired and the whole grounds beautified and every thing will be in readiness before the opening day. The work is being done under the supervision of Mr. C. R. Campbell who always does things right.

FOR THE BUSY READER.

A committee of the American Bar Association has formulated a set of rules to govern legal ethics which it is proposed to discuss at the next annual meeting.

Floods which are believed to be the heaviest that have been experienced for years are reported from Central Japan. Some villages have been completely submerged.

A committee of the National House of Representatives appointed to inspect the various naval stations of the country will visit the New York navy yard this week.

Three fires within the space of a few hours at Paducah caused a loss estimated at more than $56,000. At one time it was feared that the entire business section of the city would be wiped out.

The influence of foreign trade sent wheat prices up the latter part of the week at Chicago after they had declined from the earlier advance. A weather bulletin from the Canadian Pacific railroad sent prices soaring.

Kansas may have a two-cent railroad rate within the next few days simply by action on the part of the State Railroad Commission, which will declare an emergency to exist. The railroads may resist and take the case into court.

Night riders walked into Rockcastle, a small town in Trigg county, and visited the home of Johnson Henrick. Henrick was called to the door and asked certain questions about shipping independent tobacco, but nothing was done to him.

Oil operations in the Kentucky field have been such as to greatly encourage the operators and the outlook is considerably brighter. Good strikes have been made in Wayne and Wolfe counties and new fields are being tested with good results.

The report of the Committee on Insurance law brought about a lively discussion Wednesday before the American Bar Association at Portland, Me. Some of the committee recommendations were rejected and others modified. Others still were accepted in the entirety.

BECKHAM AND FRANKLIN

Powers And Taylor and the Formers Alleged Immunity.

Democracy's Extremity Demands Heroic Methods--Hence Franklin's Grand Stand.

The latest evidence of the desperate plight of the Democratic State machine is Commonwealth Attorney Franklin's suggestion of immunity to Gov. Taylor if the latter will return to Kentucky and testify in the Powers case. Although, considering the sources, this to the mind of intelligent man is the most monstrous political conspiracy that can be imagined. Mr. Franklin and Gov. Beckham can no more give or enforce such immunity than they can control the course of the stars. If Gov. Taylor was such a fool as to trust this promise of immunity the moment he stepped on Kentucky soil, reward seekers and bitter partisan opponents would arrest him on the charge of felony (and any private citizen could make such arrest), and take him before the Franklin Circuit Court to answer there the indictment pending against him; and that court would be compelled to take jurisdiction of the case, and hold him to answer, regardless of any promise of immunity from Franklin and Beckham.

That this is true is well known to all intelligent lawyers. The rule is well established in our jurisprudence that where a defendant is unlawfully and forcibly abducted into a jurisdiction where a prosecution is pending against him, the court there must take jurisdiction of and try the case regardless of how infamous or unlawful the abduction may have been; that such court cannot inquire into or question the circumstances under which the defendant was brought into its jurisdiction. See the following United States Supreme Court cases, where this rule is clearly upheld: Ker vs. Illinois, 119 U. S. 436; Mahon vs. Justice, 127 U. S. 700; and Cook vs. Hurt, 146 U. S. 183. The rule was followed in the recent celebrated Haywood case in Idaho. The public generally is conversant with the fact that, notwithstanding Haywood was kidnapped in Colorado, and without any legal authority, was carried into Idaho for trial, the Idaho court—where the prosecution was pending—assumed jurisdiction of and tried the case.

As the Governor of Kentucky represents the executive, and not the judicial arm of the State government he cannot in any wise, control immunity, and any proclamation or assurance that he would guarantee immunity would be an absurdity.

Both Mr. Franklin and Gov. Beckham should know all this. The suggestion of immunity is not in good faith, but it is the sheerest hypocrisy, born of the direct extremity of the Democratic State machine in the present campaign. They make a proposition that they know Gov. Taylor could not, in good faith, accept, and then they will exploit the whole matter with the hope that they will make campaign capital and fool somebody. They have certainly forgotten Mr. Lincoln's famous assertion: "You cannot fool all the people all the time." It is preposterous for them to claim that any sane friend would arrest Taylor in order to have Beckham pardon him, as they have stated in their answer to Powers' proposition of a pardon in case the "immunity promise" was violated.

Mr. Franklin gives the whole matter away in the suggestion made in his letter to Gov. Beckham that "it seems to me that so solemn, and, in common honesty, so binding a pledge of Kentucky's honor, made by your excellency ought to satisfy and quiet any doubts or fears for his safety that even Taylor or any of his friends or sympathizers at home or abroad may pretend to entertain." This was said by Franklin in reference to the guarantee that Beckham expected to give. Of what value is a pledge, however solemnly given, that is without constitutional or statutory authority? The courts would pay no more attention to such a pledge than to the pledge of any other unauthorized person. Moreover, who would regard as being entitled to any consideration or weight the pledge to Taylor made by the man who robbed him of the Governorship, and who has ever since tried to destroy Taylor, in order to cover up that robbery? Even if Beckham had the legal power to guarantee immunity, would not Taylor be the prince of fools to trust such guarantee? Is the man who robbed Taylor in 1900 the man who, by his appointments of special Judges ever since, has uniformly brought about the position of Powers and Howard and the acquittal of Hargis, to be trusted to carry out any obligation of honor.

Again it is to be noted that Mr. Franklin annexed as a condition to the guarantee of immunity that Gov. Taylor shall "subject himself unreservedly to an examination and cross-examination on the witness stand in open court." This means, of course, that Mr. Franklin is to be the sole judge of whether Gov. Taylor does unreservedly subject himself to such examination and cross-examination. If Mr. Franklin should believe, or pretend to believe, that Taylor—though he might have undergone the most rigid examination and cross-examination—had not done so unreservedly, he, Franklin, might, and permit Taylor's arrest incarceration without bail and trial; all on the ground that Taylor had not met the condition laid down for his return.

If Gov. Beckham really wishes to convince the public that he desires Mr. Powers to have a fair and impartial trial, he ought to have begun long ago to act with fairness and decency. He ought to have so made appointment of special Judges in the Hargis cases as would have shown that he used the great powers of his office—not for partisan ends, but for the ends of justice alone. In the Powers case he should have acted in like good spirit, in the appointment of special Judges and in discussion of the case from stump while he was a candidate for the high office of Governor.

If he and Mr. Franklin were in anywise sincere in their present suggestions of a fair trial for Powers and the others indicted with him, they would discharge such cheap clap-trap and campaign buncombe as bogus immunity proffers, and, first refraining from rushing pell-mell into the public prints, they would use their authorities and powers of office to bring about such a condition of the judiciary as would, as near as may be possible, permit fair non-partisan trials. Gov. Beckham would urge the repeal of the $100,000 blood-money appropriation act. Mr. Franklin would allow bail to Powers. He would refuse to engage in or permit the selection of jurors who felt greater allegiance to the Democratic machine in Kentucky than to the Commonwealth of Kentucky, or to the Lord God of Hosts. He would see to it that the juries were not selected to convict the defendants because they are Republicans, but selected to try the cases "according to the law and the evidence, and true verdicts render," because it is genius and glory of our laws and institutions that to the humblest, most despised human beings in all the land this much must be accorded.

If Mr. Franklin's own life depended on the giving of these defendants fair and impartial trial, does anyone believe for a moment that the packed, partisan juries that have been selected in these cases in the past would be permitted in the future?

The extremity of the hour demands on the part of the Democratic machine heroic treatment. The Democratic State ticket is in peril. Even Beckham sees defeat staring him in the face. For this reason the shade of Goebel must again be invoked; once again must the fires of party hatred be fanned, and the fuel of party feud heaped on the dying embers. Hence, on the eve of this campaign comes this eleventh-hour offer of immunity; and before the ink is dry on the letters passing between the Commonwealth's Attorney and the Governor, the whole matter is given to the press, and is in the mouth of every cheap demagogue in the State. Who will advocate the election of these machine-made candidates? For this reason and for no other, is made this absurd, impracticable suggestion of immunity. The trick is too plain. It will require more than this to prop up the Democracy.

How Tinfoil is Made.

Tinfoil, which is extensively used for wrapping tobacco, certain food products and other articles of commerce, is a combination of lead with a thin coating of tin on each side.

It is made in the following manner: First, a tin pipe is made of a thickness proportionate to its diameter; proportion not given. This pipe is then filled with molten lead and rolled or beaten to the extreme thinness required. In this process the tin coating spreads simultaneously with the spreading of the lead core, and continuously maintains a thin, even coating of tin each side of the center sheet of lead, even though it may be reduced to a thickness of 0.01 inch or less.—Valva World.

PEONAGE PRACTIC- ED IN KENTUCKY

Suit for $20,000 Filed on Account of Alleged Bondage

William Madison Claims he Was Not Paid, Beaten and Finally Shot.

A suit for $20,000 damages was filed in the United States Court at Richmond, Ky., last Friday by William Madison, a laborer, who claims Cincinnati as his home, against Eugene Moynahan & Son, contractors, at Nicholasville, Ky. He alleges that the defendants willfully deliberately and maliciously held him in peonage, and on various occasions, without cause, brutally beat him with clubs and on one occasion shot him three times.

The plaintiff alleges that from time to time he saw laborers severely punished with clubs, and that a number of men, in attempting to escape, were shot, one man being maimed for life; that he often saw men, unable to work from sickness, compelled to go to work at the point of a revolver. The plaintiff alleges that he himself was so badly treated, besides being subjected to all kinds of hardships and indignities, that he made up his mind to escape at the first opportunity and that one morning before daybreak he did escape and walked to Beattyville, a distance of eight miles but was followed by a negro guard, and at the point of a Winchester rifle, was compelled to return and resume his labors. He also alleges that when a month was up they would not pay him; would not let him stop work and would not allow him to leave.

He alleges that on July 6, 1906, he made a second escape and landed at Beattyville in safety. The plaintiff further alleges that a short time thereafter he was attacked by Eugene Moynahan, who shot him three times, once in the leg, once in the side and once through the nose.

About the time he was recovering from his wounds he alleges that he was arrested on a warrant sworn out by William Moynahan and sentenced to jail upon an unfair charge, and also say that while in jail he was visited by Eugene Moynahan, Al Newton and the jailer, and was told if he would sign a certain paper, which was then presented to him, he would be given his freedom. He alleges that he was not told what the nature of the contents of the paper was, nor does he yet know, but that he signed it and was released from custody and claims that he immediately went to Richmond, Ky., and that on the following morning he was accosted by an attorney of Beattyville, and was told by him to leave the State of Kentucky and not be around at the trial of a certain case between the Moynahans and a certain newspaper. The plaintiff alleges that in addition to having been brutally treated and shot, he is now in constant fear to return to Kentucky and that he has been damaged in the sum of $20,000.

A Chat With The Girls.

I heard somebody, perhaps it was a prude, say the other day that fashionably accomplished young ladies consider it a disgrace to enter a kitchen or know how to make a loaf of bread. Now we know some sensible girls who do not consider themselves disgraced if they are found helping their mothers, and moreover we know that what the above mentioned prude said is true in many instances.

Society at the present day demands that girls shall be what they call accomplished; and to fulfill this demand the mothers of Christendom teach their daughters that a knowledge of all that belongs to life's duties at home is not one of the requirements, that manual labor must be consonant with drawing room cultivation. And so their little hands slip idly over the piano key; they waltz in the most approved style; sipper a little French or German quote poetry—and society say they are accomplished. Doubtless they are, and by-and-by as all modern fashionables do, they win a husband.

Now is there one of their boasted accomplishments that will help to make or bless a home? We know that music is pleasant, and home is not home where there are no songs or sweet harmonies; but a knowledge of the piano will not help a woman discharge her wifely duties, and a smattering of French or an ability to waltz gracefully, will do but little towards preparing a palatable dinner for a

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness the fact in renewed comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve tonic adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments. husband when he comes home hungry.

Modern girls have not less ability than our grandmothers had; the evil all lies in the principles imbibed in early years. If mothers will teach, by word and deed, that idleness is an accomplishment, then what may we expect? Where shall we look for the true woman, the blessed homes in the years to come? The woman who would fill life's station nobly and well cannot earn too much. If she fails in her home she will fail in all; for there rest the basis of her ultimate success.

WORK ON LINCOLN FARM HAS BEGUN

A Civil Engineer is Making Preparation for Early Work on the Construction.

The first actual work on the improvements at the Lincoln Farm were begun yesterday afternoon says last Thursday's Larue County Herald.

On yesterday morning's train Mr. W. F. Kemp, a civil engineer of Louisville arrived here under the employ of the Lincoln Farm Association for the purpose of doing work on the Lincoln Farm. The work which he is commissioned to do at the present time is to lay off eight acres of the west end of the farm into squares 25 feet by 25 feet, giving all the elevations and the nature of the soil to the depth of fifteen feet at different points of the eight acres.

The land thus embraced will include the site for the museum at one end and the monumental shaft at the other. Between the two there will be built the walk and driveway connecting the two. The object of learning the nature of the soil underneath is to ascertain how deep they will have to go to secure the foundation for the museum building. It is the intention to go down until solid rock is met with, as the weight of the building, will require a very solid foundation.

Mr. Kemp was not informed the exact date of the beginning of the work of construction, but it is known that it will begin as soon as the material can be got ready for shipment here, nearly all the material for the building to be brought in.

BOYS SAVED GENERAL AL ROBERT E. LEE.

Value of Young Soldiers of the South at Gettysburg.

In an article in McClure's Magazine by the late Carl Shurz on the "Battle of Gettysburg," the statement is made that "the general feeling in our ranks were that we had won a victory and that we had now to reap its fruits. The instinct of the soldiers demanded prompt aggressive movement upon the enemy, and I think the instinct of the soldiers was right. The strongest of our army corps, the Fifth, kept in reserve, was substantially intact. Hardly any of the other corps had suffered so much as to be incapable of vigorous action. Their spirits were elated to genuine enthusiasm by the great event of the day. An order for a general advance seemed to be the natural outcome of the moment, and many men in the ranks fairly cried for it. But it did not come. Out skirmishers followed the retreating enemies for a certain distance and then returned with their prisoners without having touched the positions from which the attacking party had emerged. Then two or three batteries of rebel artillery galloped forth from the belt of timber which screened the enemy's scattered forces. They advanced a short distance, unlimbered, fired a few discharges, limbered up again and galloped back—probably to make us believe that the enemy although repulsed, was still on the ground in fighting trim. (I do not remember having seen this fact stated in any of the histories of the battle of Gettysburg, but I observe it with my own eyes, and the impression is still vivid in my memory.)"

The following from the "Boy Soldiers of the Confederacy," by Mrs. Susan R. Hulst of Baltimore, is cited by the author to show that to Parker's boy artillery is due the glory of having saved the army of Gen. Lee from what might have been a fatal pursuit:

Dr. Hale says: "The battle of Gettysburg was won by boys whose ages averaged 23." We call those men. On the Southern side battles were lost or won by boys averaging 16—officers of high rank from 17 to 24—so nobly fought that Gen. S. D. Lee, addressing Parker's boy battery after an engagement in which they had distinguished themselves, said: "You are boys, but you have gone this day where only men could go." The retreat from Gettysburg was covered at one point by two guns of that battery, which retreat had begun. A Confederate officer rode up to Capt. Parker and demanded why he did not go. He replied that he had no order from competent authority to do so. Receiving this order that little battery retired slowly, following the regiments which were leaving the field in good order, their officers walking backward step by step, face to foe. History presents no other such picture. A United States officer stated afterward that his force was prevented from pursuing and attacking the retreating army by this battery as no one would have supposed it could have been left in that position without strong support.

Old Age and Conscience.

Old age is both venerable and respectable, but it should be serene and cheerful, and illumined with the placid content that sheds a mild light over everything for why should Old age be gloomy and selfish, or irritable and ill-tempered, rather than hale, and hearty, and wholesome? There are numerous instances of old men who know how to keep within laughing distance of their youth; and why should not all discover the secret? The answer to this is to be found among the things that are fundamental, and when it is found, it spells Conscience! The gloomy and soured ones, who are at war with youth and the world and who claim the possession of numberless physical ailments, would have an easier and a happier time if they traced their troubles to Conscience. It is their keenest and most painful ailment. They may beat it down and smother it in the pride of life, and in the vain-glory of their youth, and it may lie dormant, a friendless and a forsaken thing, for many years, but it is bound to have its innings at last. When the body begins to show signs of physical wear and tear, and the passions grow weak or die out altogether, and the legs acquire their premonitory wobble so familiar to the experience of mankind, Conscience arises from its long rest, refreshed and reinvigorated, and proceeds to take possession of the carcass and use its sharp and secret lash. And what a pity this lashing cannot take place in the public eye! In the market-places of the world! In the midst of the assemblies of men!—Joel Chandler Harris in Uncle Remus's Magazine for September.

Raising From the Grave.

A prominent manufacturer, Wm. A. Fertilizer, of Lucama, N. C., relates a most remarkable experience. He says "After taking less than three bottles of Electric Bitters, I feel like one rising from the grave. My trouble is Bright's disease, in the Diabetes stage. I fully believe Electric Bitters will cure me permanently, for it has already stopped the liver and bladder complications which have troubled me for years. Guaranteed at all druggists Price only 50c."

Before and After.

For twelve months before they were married she never went down town without seeing him. If she walked one block he always managed to be waiting for her on the corner, smiling like an oyster on the half shell. If she carried a package as weighty as a spool of thread he took it from her by force, for fear she would break a mainspring. He wanted to call on her every night and would have done so if her father had been dead. He just simply existed and that was all, when out of her presence. He was so considerate for her feelings he never went near her after taking a drink until he had thoroughly overhauled and deodorized his breath. Twelve months after that they married, and if he saw her down town, he darted in a screen door to keep her from seeing him. He saw her pass by with a heavy bundle, but he never went out and offered to carry the load. Perhaps it was better because he was already loaded himself. He usually made it home for supper and then went down town on important business. This is what I call before and after taking.—Sam Jones.

Neighbors got Fooled.

"I was literally coughing myself to death, and had become too weak to leave my bed; and neighbors predicted that I would never leave it alive; but they got fooled, for thanks be to God, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I took just four one dollar bottles to completely cure the cough and restore me to good sound health," writes Mrs. Eva Uncapher, of Grovetown, Stark County, Ind. This King of cough and cold cures, and healer of throat and lungs, is guaranteed by all druggists. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Fashions for Thin Women.

The shoulder-line is an especially important one for the thin. A full or trimmed shoulder sash is always preferable to a plain one, and either flat stitched pads or tucks carried down from one to four inches over the front and back disguise the meager figure as nothing else will. Any of those may be employed at present in dress waists and in Eton or long coats. That idea should guide the slender woman in her selection of the shirt waists in wool that are coming in, the majority of which are tailored affairs. Ruffled sleeves, airy and gossamer in texture, conceal, because they harmonize with, the thin arm; whereas thick ruffles cause such a member to appear pipe-stemish as it emerges from them.—Harper's Bazar.

The Killers.

It happened that once a man ran past Socrates armed with an axe. He was in pursuit of another who was running from him at full speed. "Stop him! Stop him," he cried. Plato's master did not move. "What!" cried the man with the axe; "couldst thou not have barred his way? He is an assassin!" "An assassin? What meant thou?" "Play not the idiot! An assassin is a man who kills." "A butcher, then?" "Old fool! A man who kills another man!" "To be sure! A soldier!" "Dolt! A man who kills another man in times of peace." "I see—the executioner." "Thou ass! A man who kills another in his home." "Exactly—a physician." Upon which the man with the axe fled—and is running still.—New York Life.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce WILLIAM FLENER, of East Beaver Dam precinct, as a candidate for Jailer of Ohio county, subject to the action of the Republican party.

It is not about time for Hager to fire the same old question at Willson. Will you, if elected pardon Powers?

The tone of the Courier-Journal indicates that it would be willing to sacrifice a few flowers under like circumstances.

Clear the decks of Kentucky's ship of State for a square deal for every soul in the Commonwealth—Augustus E. Willson.

Willson is now assured of a large majority in Muhlenburg county. The Central City Argus has begun to abuse and vilify him.

Is the oft repeated assertion, that Grover Cleveland is improving in health, to be taken as indicating his willingness to run some more?

It is now pointed out that should the prosecution of the trusts continue the poor will suffer with the rich. However, that is better than for the poor to suffer alone.

How can Beckham and Hager expect honest Democrats to support them unless they clear up the charge of fraud specifically made by Mr. Willson, involving their title to nomination in the primary last November?

If the people of Kentucky want a man for Governor who has lived temperance, preached temperance and practiced what he preached, they should vote for the Hon. A. E. Willson.—Mt. Sterling Gazette.

The temperance advocate who votes for Willson may rest assured that he not only helps along a man who is in thorough accord with him, but can also be absolutely sure that he is not boosting a large quantity of "booze" into the executive chair at Frankfort.

Have the Trusts got the Hartford Republican with a "down hill pull"—Hartford Herald. No, they haven't "got" us with any kind of "pull," but you let congress pass another Willson Tariff measure and it is ten to one the Herald will wear a "Cleveland badge" on the seat of its trousers.

The Hartford Herald says that under Democratic administration Kentucky has expended over two millions of dollars for new institutions and "departures." We suppose "departures" include the needless offices created which cost the State $50,000 a year.

The Hartford Herald advances the theory that Hager, Beckham & Co. should be elected because the present Democratic administration has devised means by which it has been able to spend two millions of surplus cash which it has exacted from taxpayers. Well it may be a commendable trait to be able to blow in the money but we have not so understood it.

Our candidate for Representative, Dr. J. A. Duff, is a young man full of energy, and anxious to do something to help old Kentucky out of the ruts. He is possessed of splendid ability, and can be depended upon to take a broad view upon all questions which may affect the material progress of his county and State. You will make no mistake in giving him your vote and influence.

Democrat newspapers ask support for their ticket because during Democratic administration in Kentucky the United States government got ready to settle a claim Kentucky presented against it for money furnished during the civil war. Who, besides the inventive geni behind Democratic campaign hot air bureaus, would ever think of claiming credit for pulling "Uncle Sam's" leg?

The death of ex-Mayor Paul Barth by his own hands, is to be regretted by all. No one doubts that Mr. Barth was an honest man, and that he had no intention of robbing the city of Louisville of the value of a horse. There is no doubt that he was not elected Mayor of Louisville, just as there is no doubt that Mr. Bingham, his successor, was not elected County Attorney at the same election. However, he had far less to do with the crooked manipulations of that election than Mr. Bingham, and we believe the stable needs watching more now than then.

According to the Hartford Herald's narrow interpretation of Ex-Governor Taylor's offer to voluntarily return to Kentucky for trial, if guaranteed a fair hearing, it would be impossible for Mr. Franklin and Governor Beckham to comply with his requirements. Mr. Taylor only asks that his case be put on the same footing as other criminal cases. If the Hartford Herald and the coterie for whom it stands will not consent to this then they will not consent to a fair trial for Mr. Taylor. And if Taylor is refused a fair trial who knows but that any other Republican who may be accused of crime is in danger of receiving just such treatment from the hands of the gang?

Major David Castleman, a life-long and leading Democrat of Lexington, in announcing his intention to quit the Democratic party gives the following as the basis of his action in so doing: "When the Democratic party makes common cause with a band of assassins; when the Democratic Governor seems to have promised immunity to the chief assassin in return for so many votes in the Democratic Senatorial primary, then the only thing left for the decent citizen is to destroy the party in which he was born." There are thousands of other Democrats who see the situation as Mr. Castleman does but they are too timid to speak out. They will vote in line though.

It is perfectly evident that Governor Taylor, in his offer to return to Kentucky for trial, has knocked the wind out of a nice little piece of political buncombe. To any fair minded man, the conditions named by Taylor must seem reasonable. No one will deny that he should be tried by a fair Judge. No one can deny, in the light of the treatment of Hargis that he should be granted bail. No one will deny that the bribe fund should be turned back to the State, and no one with enough fairness to entitle him to respect, will deny that he should be given a jury made up of both parties. These are the conditions laid down, and if not accepted, the blame will be placed where it belongs. Beckham and Franklin are no doubt disappointed as they only made the proposition that he should return to give testimony in the Powers case. It is too bad. Taylor had no right to spoil their little game, by "going them one better."

"I cannot think of a more laughable picture than the nominee for Governor of the modern remains of the old whisky Democratic party posing as an apostle of temperance and rebuking all others who dare stand for the cause, and I wonder what sensible, thinking people in Kentucky think of the good faith and earnestness of the Auditor in this cause when, protesting his devotion to temperance, he reaches to heaven the hand that cashed the check of the Central Consumers' Company, the organization of the beer and saloon interests, for $3,500, and for which, as the Rev. Dr. McLaughlin stated he was creditably informed, Mr. Hager had promised to protect the saloon interests and to oppose the county unit bill, and Gov. Beckham had indorsed this in the Louisville and Nashville depot at Tenth street and Broadway, Louisville, and they did, in fact, oppose the county unit bill as long as they dared, and when the Republicans moved to substitute the Cammack bill, which applied the measure to all counties, Beckham and Hager defeated the substitute and left the bill as it was, exempting counties with cities of the first, second, third and fourth classes.—Augustus E. Willson.

Ex-Governor W. S. Taylor, in responding to Bob Franklin and Governor Beckham's alleged immunity propositions, about which Democratic newspapers have been parading and cavorting for the past few weeks, says: "If he (Franklin) will in some way, provide an absolute guaranty, not merely a promise, a guaranty that will inspire confidence among sensible, level-headed, honest men, a guaranty the spirit of which may not be violated though the letter be observed, that I will be given a fair and impartial trial, before a jury composed of six upright Democrats and a like number of upright Republicans, I will gladly return to Kentucky and submit to trial." In the light of the treatment accorded Jim Hargis, a Democrat, and in view of the fact that solidly Democratic juries have tried him in every instance and in view of the further fact that the offenses charged against Taylor and Hargis are identically the same, if this is not a fair proposition, and does not forever silence the clamors of the unscrupulous gang who have hounded Taylor for seven years and denied Caleb Powers bail or any sort of fair or decent trial; will some one in an intelligent manner explain wherein the unfairness lies and why the gang should not subside?

OHIO COUNTY POST-MASTERS ORGANIZE

Seek to Improve Service as Well as Increase Modest Income.

Narrows, Ky., Aug. 28.—Responding to a call by S. W. Gaines, postmaster at Fordsville, a convention of Ohio county postmasters of the fourth class met in Fordsville Tuesday and organized a county union. Owing to the heavy rain falling nearly all over the county that morning the number of postmasters present was not as large as was expected but an organization was effected and elected S. W. Gaines, of Fordsville, President; Walter Russell, of Rockport, Vice President, and J. H. Thomas, of Narrows, Secretary and Treasurer. The convention adjourned to meet at Hartford Saturday, September 14, at which time we hope to have every postmaster in the county to join the union. The Postoffice Department encourages the organization of the postmasters because it results in a more efficient service, and is at the same time a productive agency in correcting the needs of the postoffice service.

In addition to improving the service it is the purpose of the organization to improve the modest income of the postmasters. The postmasters of the fourth-class are the only class of Federal employees who are required to furnish their own equipments, and the demand for rent, fuel, lights and furniture equipment is such a reasonable one that we shall get it at the next session of Congress if we can get the matter impressively put before it. Let every postmaster attend the meeting at Hartford September 14, and effect a strong organization, and send delegates to the State meeting which convenes in Louisville September 17.

If there are any postmasters who may find it absolutely impossible to attend the meeting of Hartford they should not fail to send $1.00, the membership fee, either to me or to the State Secretary at Sitton, Ky., and they will receive membership card by mail. J. H. THOMAS, Sec.

Gardner conducted religious services preaching an able sermon to the crowd in a nearby grove. It is quite unusual for so many descendants of one person to be together, in fact few men are survived by so large a number of direct or lineal descendants.

Family reunions are grand occasions and should be more extensively practiced.

GHOST DRESSED IN BLACK STEERED STEAMER

Crew Saw Spook at The Wheel
And Swear to The

Just twenty-six years ago this month I left Glasgow in a full-rigged ship of the City Line, being a midshipman of the company. We were bound around the Cape of Good Hope to Calcutta.

We made a record to the line in eighteen days, and, missing the doldrums, got a fair wind from the westward.

When in the locality of the De Verde Islands the Captain set the course for the night, leaving the chart on the cabin table, with penciled course for the second officer's guidance.

In the middle watch, while I was on deck on the opposite side of the roof back from the officer, the Captain called for me and inquired who had tampered with the chart. I replied that I had seen no one go down below through the companion way.

He then called the officer and inquired of him; he also denied any knowledge of the same.

He retired after charging the pencil-marked course again to the correct course. It had been changed to another course by some unknown person.

In about an hour the Captain in a rage, called the officer down and called the first officer and steward out of their cabins, and demanded who had been playing the fool with him by tampering with the chart. No body knew of the occurrence.

Disbelieving and in a passion, he again changed the course to the correct bearings, and warning the officer on watch to keep a sharp lookout he went to his berth, but lay down with the door of his cabin open, commanding a view of the saloon table with the chart in sight.

In about twenty minutes, while all were watching, a man dressed in an ordinary black gentleman's suit came for the fore part of the saloon, out of the companionway and approaching the table hastily penciled the course back again the third time, heading us out of our course.

The captain dumbfounded at first at a stranger on a merchant vessel when three weeks out of port, said nothing, but recovering himself he sprung out of his bunk roaring: "Who are you?"

The person, pointing to the chart, started toward the companionway, the Captain springing after him.

In the companionway he vanished. No one ever came on deck, where we were waiting to catch him, having seen all, and thinking possibly it was stowaway, though how he could have lived and where hidden himself was incomprehensible.

All hands were then called, and a complete search of the ship was made, the Captain seeming to think that the man must have slipped past us on deck, doubting the possibility of the vanishing, being no believer in spiritual manifestations until then. No trace of anybody was found.

Then the captain after conferring with the officers, changed the orders and we followed the course given by the apparition. The next morning, at about 9 we came up to a boat load of people who had taken to the boat from a burning ship.

On the boat approaching the rail, a man cried out: "There is the man I saw in my dream," pointing to the captain. He claimed to have seen the captain and to know that he would be saved by him in a dream the previous night.

Yet the man was not dressed like the apparition not did he look like him.

Four parties saw the apparition, the second officer, captain, man at the wheel and myself. This account was logged and can be verified.—New York World.

"We never repent of eating too little," was one of the ten rules of life of Thomas Jefferson, President of the United States, and the rule applies to every one without exception during this hot weather, because it is hard for food, even in small quantities, to be digested when the blood is at high temperature. At this season we should eat sparingly and properly. We should also help the stomach as much as possible by the use of a little Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia, which will rest the stomach by digesting the food itself. Sold by all druggists.

Fads Among Smokers.

"Make me up a package of tobacco according to the formula used by Edwin Booth," said the man with a Southern accent.

"That is the third man who has asked for that kind of tobacco to-day," said the dealer. "It is strange that people from remote parts of the country, as well as New Yorkers, make a fad of buying the same brand of tobacco that Booth smoked. And isn't always the Booth mixtures that they want. I have filed away the formulas for mixing the favorite tobacco of many famous persons. Smokers the country over have heard of this collection of recipes, and one feature of every man's trip to New York is to try a pipeful of smoke York is to try a pipeful of some big man's favorite tobacco. In most cases the special mixture is so strong that the nerves of the average smoker cannot stand it. He has to give up after a few pipefuls and go back to a popular mixture, but he has the satisfaction of having had the experience."—New York Sun.

John Riha, a prominent dealer of Vining, Ia., says: "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold. There are a dozen people here who have used them and they give perfect satisfaction in every case. I have used them myself with fine results." Sold by all druggists.

In Memory

Of Daisy Dean, daughter of Thomas L. and Evaline Davis, who was born in Ohio county, Ky., February 20, 1886. Joined the M. E. church south at Marvin's Chapel, December 5, 1901. Was married to Mr. Reuben F. Baize, August 16, 1903. Died at her home at Taylor Mines, Ky., July 19, 1907, of typhoid fever, age 21 years, 4 months and 29 days. She has left a husband and two little boys, Arvin and Cecil, also a mother, three brothers and six sisters and a large number of other relatives and friends to mourn her departure. Yet our loss is her gain, as she left evidence that she was going to a heavenly home and just before her departure she requested those at her bedside to meet her in heaven. And as her mother was absent on account of the sickness of the writer hereof "as it was our lot to be down with typhoid fever at the same time." Daisy said to those around her "tell my mamma to meet me in heaven." Her mother had started to see her but Daisy died just a few moments before her mother arrived. We believe that she had made her peace with God and that her spirit is now roaming in that land of bliss the home of the redeemed and perhaps is beckoning to some wayward relative or friend as well as those who are trying to lead an upright christian life to meet in her heavenly home. We would say to all the bereaved ones not to mourn for Daisy as for one who had no hope, but look unto him who doeth all things well. Her remains were interred in the Sunnydale cemetery on July 20, in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends to await the resurrection morn.

A precious one from us has gone,

A voice we loved is stilled.

A place is vacant in our home,

Which never can be filled.

Jesus while our hearts are bleeding,

O'er the spots that death hath won.

We would at this solemn meeting,

Calmy say "Thy will be done."

When we leave this world of changes,

When we leave this world of care,

We shall find our missing loved one

And our father mansion fair.

Weep not for her who has gone before

And beckon's to all friends below,

To come up higher and adore

The glories beyond the beautiful shore. Her brother,

HIS QUITE UNUSUAL CAUSE FOR SUICIDE.

Chinese Servant Declared Mistress' Singing Was Too Much.

Queer is the story related of a Chinese man servant, who declares that he prefers death itself to the infliction of hearing his mistress, who is described as a lyric artist, practicing her songs, morning, noon and night. And odd to relate, this particular heathen seems to be sincere as he really made several attempts on his life, and even after his last vain endeavor, repeated his resolution to die rather than be condemned to listen to strains which he regards as anything but dulcet. Evidently the lyric art has no charms for him. This eccentric individual was brought to Europe by the lady's husband a year ago, but it is only recently that he developed this inveterate dislike to her music. Last month, it is said he concocted a sort of poison and made himself sick with it, but the result went no further. The he tried opium but awoke apparently none the worse from a phenomenal spell of sleep.

As poisons and drugs were powerless in helping him to carry out project of shuffling off the moral coil the Chinese man servant decided on trying more active measures. One morning he took up his position on the balcony of the house inhabited by the family which courts the muses, and after taking a last look, as he imagined, at the busy scene around him, he flung himself into space. It so chanced that a motor car was coming along. On the top of the automobile reposed a box containing a provision of tires, and as luck would have it, the Chinese tumbled in among them, and they broke his fall so that he got off with a shock. But such an acrobatic exhibition, even from a representative of the Celestial Empire, was not relished by the occupants of the motor car, who protested so vigorously against this peculiar addition to their company that the whole party were soon on their way to the police station. The luckless Chinese failed to make himself understood, and something like a deadlock would have been the result if the lyric artist had not appeared to claim him.

This is the third time within a month that he had tried to put an end to his days, and she insisted on knowing the reason. Then the man servant found his tongue, and in broken French replied, before the officials and the automobile set. "All want to know. I say. French madame howls too much. I die or hook it." Prompt measures are being taken for the restoration of this hopeless Chinese to his native land.—London Telegraph.

Great Cole Bros. Show.

When "Jumbo" toured this country he was unquestionably the largest pachyderm that had ever been publicly exhibited in any part of the world. He was just what was claimed for him, the largest elephant in captivity, and this honor was his until last fall, when Martin J. Downs, proprietor of Cole Brothers' World-Toured Shows discovered "Mighty Mary" and were "Jumbo" alive to-day he would acknowledge her supremacy. "Mighty Mary" is not only the largest beast in captivity, but ivory hunters admit she is the largest they have ever seen. "Mighty Mary" stands eleven and one-half feet in height and to transport her through the country a special car had to be constructed. As all shows safely under bridges, it was necessary to lower the floor of the one occupied by this gigantic animal and to place extra heavy truss rods beneath it that her tremendous weight would not break through. The Goliath of the elephant world was found in Prince Mnelek, in India, over which she presided with a royal air. That "Mighty Mary" is aware of her massive proportions is evident in the self-satisfied, queenly manner she moves her towering form among the herd in Cole Brothers' Show. It is difficult to describe an elephant of such great bulk and were it possible the true facts would be regarded as exaggeration. This moving mountain of flesh, bone and ivory is part of the Cole Brothers' menagerie and no extra charge is made to see all earth's largest living lessons in natural history. "Mighty Mary" will be seen with the shows when they exhibit in Beaver Dam September 3.

BAD MEAT IS STILL BEING SOLD.

Federal Officials Tells How Smaller Packers Dodge Inspection Law.

A news special from Washington says: "That very bad conditions prevail in the small packing houses of the country was strongly intimated to-day by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Hays in a talk on the enforcement of the new meat inspection laws.

"The public has no adequate protection against the small packer who is doing a purely state business," the assistant secretary said. "Local meat inspection, by which I mean the inspection of plants not subject to federal control, is open to the same objection raised against the old system that prevailed before the existing federal inspection was put into force.

"The legislatures of the various states must be brought to realize the situation and pass laws which will give adequate protection to the public. They must pass laws for local or State inspection as stringent as the federal laws and modeled as far as possible on the latter.

"The situation in some of the States is such that the small packers have been forced to give up all their interstate business and confine themselves wholly to intrastate business. The firm that does an interstate business, even through the latter be only a small part of its whole business must submit to the fullest federal inspection of cattle, of all its products and of its sanitary arrangements.

"The firm that does a purely local business, selling nothing across state lines, faces only the local inspection. In many instances the latter is so poor that it fails entirely to protect the public against the use of diseased cattle and the sale of unwholesome meat products. The firm operating under local inspection can, therefore, undersell firms subject to federal inspection.

"This department has knowledge of many instances where small packers gave up their interstate business in order to escape federal inspection and thus be able to meet local competition.

"The situation demands drastic legislation from the State legislatures, in the opinion of Assistant Secretary Hays, and the department means to do all it can to direct public attention to the matter and have the evils compensated or corrected by proper State legislation."

Hartford Business Institute.

A strong business preparation for a successful commercial career is now recognized as a necessity by every leading man. One of America's greatest business men said, "The young man who starts at this time will stand little chance of success without thorough business training." And for the young woman of to-day, the best safeguard she can have is a business education by means of which to earn her livelihood whenever necessity demands. What could be more pitiable than to see a young woman in luxury, thrown on her own resources without a practical education?

It is no longer a question of getting positions for students, but getting students ready for positions. The demand is greater than the supply. While we have had a strong class of students during the past two years we have not been able to fill the demands that have been made upon us for competent bookkeepers and stenographers. Young men and young women with a good common school education have enrolled with us, finished the course and with their money making capacity greatly increased have gone out to positions of honor and trust.

Do you want to be one of this number of successful young people? If so, write us for further information. Catalogs sent free. Address all communications to Nettie Rogers, Principal, Hartford Ky.

Aliments of Americans.

A prominent physician at Carlsbad reckons on two or three fingers the chief ailments of Americans who consult him. They are the results of overindulgence at the table and the worry habit contracted by going the peace. The peace, as every one knows may be the too-enthusiastic pursuit of any branch of business of social life. A moderate chase gives no one cause for worry. It is when one gallops all the time that there is mischief. To a staid and sober observer who cannot see more than one are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

side of a condition at a glance it appears possibly that it would be easier and pleasanter to take the remedy of moderation in this country than to cross annually to foreign parts in search of a cure. Republicans of Ohio County.

Under the above caption in last week's Republican I announced my candidacy for Jailor. When I wrote the card I thought a precinct convention had been called having been so informed by a gentleman that attended the committee meeting but left before its deliberations were over. My card in the Republican was changed to confer to the call. I don't withdraw however on the account of a mass convention alone, as I feel that I would win either way, but upon investigation I have decided that I can't afford to make the race. With a heart full of gratitude to my friends for their assurance of support, I beg to be considered "out of the running."

Very respectfully,

Hartford College News.

School will open next Monday, Sept. 2. Special examinations will be held at the college next Saturday, August 31, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. These examinations are intended for two classes of pupils: First, those who have recently moved into the district and have not been classified in the school. Second, those who have taken special work during the summer and who desire to try again for promotion. All pupils for whom these examinations are intended, should be present next Saturday, as teachers will be too busy next week to give such examinations. Pupils are requested to bring with them to these examinations their text-books and pencils.

All patrons are earnestly requested to send their children to school the first day, and to see to it that they attend promptly and regularly throughout the year. One's success or failure in school depends largely upon regularity of attendance.

The school building is being thoroughly scoured, cleaned, and fumigated, and both building and grounds will present a neat and inviting appearance next Monday. At least $150 worth of library books and scientific apparatus will soon be installed. Several non-resident pupils have written to Prof. Gray to secure boarding place for them, and others are expected in this week to engage board and make other arrangements. A business meeting of the faculty will be held at the college Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.
